HAD RIGHT TO RESIST.

Henry Moorman Acquitted Of Charge Of Wounding Revenue Officers.

St. Louis, Nov. 27.—Henry D. Moorman, an oleomargarine dealer at 4228 Easton avenue, who was wounded in a fight with revenue agents, who raided his place a year ago, was acquitted in the United States District Court of a charge of wounding and interfering with revenue officer in the discharge of his duty. The jury was instructed by Judge Dyer to return a verdict of not guilty before any evidence had been taken, on the ground that the officers had no right to be in Moorman's building.

The raid was made the night of October 11, 1907. Six officers broke open a door leading to the rooms above Moorman's store. He resisted the execution of the search warrant and each side opened fire with revolvers and guns. Moorman and Revenue Agent, Edward Daly, fell, both badly wounded.

Moorman was indicted and when his trial began in the Federal Court Thursday his attorneys, Horace L. Dyer and Walter N. Davis, objected to any evidence being introduced, contending that the search warrant was issued by United States Commissioner M. H. H. Dyer without any evidence except the suspicion of a revenue officer that Moorman had concealed oleomargarine without paying the required tax.

Judge Dyer ruled that a search warrant is not legal unless issued on evidence of violation of law. With an illegal warrant, he said, the revenue officers were trespassing on the property and that Moorman had the right to defend himself against trespassers.

CARNEGIE AGENT INVESTIGATES

Raymond May's Heroic Efforts To Save a Little "Nigger" Might Be Crowned With Gold And More Honor.

Hopes For Medal Slight.

Last September, the eighth day, when Raymond May risked his own life to save that of a negro child, he did not dream the world would ever call him a hero, neither did he anticipate being in line for a Carnegie medal. Really, he had never realized the fact until a Special Agent for the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission arrived in Cloverport to see him Sunday evening.

Monday the agent made thorough investigations into the act performed by May. After having an interview with May and the person who informed the Commission of the rescue, the agent went to the L. H. & St. L. shops for other details. He took pictures of May standing on the engine in the positions he attained at the time of the occurrence.

However, the agent did not stimulate May's hopes for getting the medal and the $2000. He assured him he would present the case clearly to the Executive Committee, but stated their decision all depended upon the nature of the risk of the rescuer.

Mr. Carnegie's representative was a Pittsburgh, Pa., man. Those who made his acquaintance, enjoyed his short stay in this city.

750,000 POUNDS TOBACCO SOLD.

Great Meeting For Farmers At Hardinsburg Saturday. Sale Made to American Tobacco Co.

Growers Well Pleased.

One hundred farmers and tobacco growers met at Hardinsburg last Saturday to ratify a sale of pooled tobacco, which has been in the hands of a committee for several weeks. The committee reported through their chairman, Mr. John E. Monarch, that they had made a sale and it only remained with them, the poolers, to say whether it should be accepted.

Mr. Monarch said that his committee had written to nearly every tobacco dealer in the country and had been able to secure but one bid and that was from the American Tobacco Company at Owensboro. He said several dealers had looked at the samples but none of them had made a bid. He said further that the bid of the American Tobacco Company was the best and only bid. He advised, so far as he was concerned, that it be accepted. "It is a good price," said he, "and I liked the manner in which the American proposed to grade it."

The price was $9, $9 and $3, for 1st grade; $8, $8 and $3 for second; $7, $7 and $3 for third; $6, $6 and $3 for 4th. The tobacco to be delivered at Hardinsburg.

There was quite a discussion followed over the different grades and the quality of each. The matter was finally settled and a vote on the bid taken, which resulted in a majority in favor of accepting the bid. 64 for and 11 against.

A motion was then made by Mr. Herbert M. Beard that the committee be paid for their good work, time and expense of making the sale. He suggested that 1/2 of 1 percent be taxed up against each man's crop, to pay the committee and grader. The motion carried.

Mr. Ben T. Miller was elected to act as grader for the farmers. Beard & Husley are agents for the Tobacco Co.

The farmers all seemed to be well pleased with the sale and went home rejoicing. 750,000 pounds are in the pool.
